Fencing won't... stop us

Lalitha Mahal Grounds will be used for parking this Ashada too. It remains under the MDA control despite ownership dispute: Dy. Commissioner

In 2025, the Mysuru District Administration had approached Pramoda Devi Wadiyar of the erstwhile Mysore Royal Family seeking permission to use Lalitha Mahal Grounds for vehicle parking during Ashada festival season. She had granted her consent. Sources said that, unlike last year, the administration has not approached her this year for permission to use the grounds for vehicle parking and for operating free KSRTC bus services to Chamundi Hill.

Mysuru, June 18 (AG &BCT)- The Mysuru District Administration has decided to continue using the Lalitha Mahal Grounds (also called MUDA Grounds) for vehicle parking during the Ashada festival season, despite the property being fenced by members of the erstwhile Mysore Royal Family, who claim ownership of the land.

Confirming the decision to Star of Mysore, Deputy Commissioner G. Lakshmikanth Reddy said that the grounds are presently under the control of the Mysuru Development Authority (MDA), though litigation over ownership is pending.

"The fencing and private property signboards will not affect our plans. Every year, Sri Chamundeshwari Temple Development Authority arranges parking facilities and free KSRTC bus services for devotees visiting Chamundi Hill. The same arrangements will continue this year," he said.

On June 14, Star of Mysore reported that the erstwhile Royal Family had fenced off the open grounds in front of Lalitha Mahal Palace Hotel and installed signboards declaring the land private property, raising concerns about the availability of the venue for Ashada festival parking and transport operations.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

THE MISSING TILE SYNDROME: Have you heard about the missing tile syndrome? To understand this, there is a story about a beautiful hotel with a swimming pool. One day, the management decided to change the tiles of the swimming pool and workers were hired to do this job. Exquisite blue tiles were laid which soon became the cynosure of all eyes. When people got down to swim, they started noticing that a tile was missing, which quickly became an eyesore for the hotel management and swimmers alike. 'How could the workers do such a shoddy job, why did they not fill this gap? How to rectify this problem,' such questions started nagging the manager. Amid thousands of tiles, the lone missing one triggered overwhelming stress, as the goal of a perfect pool remained unfulfilled.

The missing tile is actually not a story but an experiment which was done in a hotel by Psychologists, to prove that we tend to lean more towards our shortcomings, despite many things going well in our lives. Human nature is such that however good our life is, we divert our mental energy towards that one elusive thing which is missing.

For instance, if one tooth is broken or chipped, our tongue invariably goes towards that particular tooth, why so? Or for that matter, if a mother has 3 kids and one has gone abroad while the other two stay with her, the mother invariably keeps thinking and worrying about the son who is not present instead of the children who take care of her.

Missing tile syndrome can rob our focus from the good things in life and eventually steal our mental peace too. This trait of noticing what is lacking can soon turn into a toxic habit, if we don't nip it in the bud. Our yoga teacher recently spoke on these lines when a few students complained that he had missed two asanas the previous day. He simply smiled and said, 'During the hour-long class, we did many asanas to improve our flexibility and muscle strength, but you regret about not doing two asanas, instead of enjoying the benefits of the overall session.'

Being contented and thankful is a mindful choice that we should learn to practise on a daily basis. By doing so, we can focus on the blessings and eventually lose sight of what we lack. Oprah Winfrey has put it aptly, 'Be thankful for what you have; you'll end up having more. If you concentrate on what you don't have, you will never, ever have enough.'

Man walks down the stairs using hands

Beijing: A Nepalese athlete with multiple Guinness World Records to his name earned another title by descending 100 stairs while walking on his hands.

Hari Chandra Giri, 31, earned the record for the fastest time to descend 100 steps walking on hands when he descended the stairs at Yunyang, Chongqing in China, in 44.71 seconds.

"I've always wanted to push what's possible with hand balancing in real-world settings. Stairs are harder than flat ground because of the angle and impact. China has some iconic staircases, so it felt like the right place to prove the concept. The goal was to show that handstand control can be precise, fast, and safe," he told Guinness World Records.

The world's thinnest chocolate

Tokyo: Launched in 2024 at Azabudai Hills Garden Plaza in Tokyo, Japan, MATTE Bottega del Cioccolato quickly made a name for itself by producing the world's thinnest chocolate.

Aptly named "Corteccia," the chocolate consists of a single, ultra-thin layer of chocolate pressed and rolled using a unique custom machine developed over 1.5 years in collaboration with a local machinery specialist. Although one can probably find similar machines around the world, none of them can produce a layer of chocolate as thin as Corteccia.

By rolling the 0.03-millimeter layer of chocolate into a shape resembling a cylindrical twig covered in irregular tree bark, MATTE created a unique dessert that allegedly melts instantly upon contact with the tongue, delivering a novel mouthfeel.

The machine used to press the chocolate is essentially one-of-a-kind and only found in MATTE Bottega del Cioccolato's Tokyo workshop. Hence it is very difficult to replicate the chocolate.

Building violations, fire: An Engineer's perspective

Sir,

I am a practising civil engineer and would like to share my concerns regarding building violations and their consequences, particularly in the wake of the recent fire tragedy in Mysuru city.

Building violations often play a major role in fire accidents. Unauthorised constructions, blocked emergency exits, faulty electrical wiring, inadequate fire-safety measures and non-compliance with building regulations can quickly turn a minor fire into a major disaster.

This is precisely what appears to have happened at the illegal restaurant at Dattagalli on June 15, which claimed two lives.

Some of the most common building violations include: Illegal additions and alterations to buildings; Absence of or malfunctioning fire alarms and sprinkler systems; Obstructed stairways and emergency exits; Overloaded electrical circuits and unsafe wiring; Storage and use of flammable materials for aesthetic purposes without adequate safeguards; Lack of fire-safety awareness and training among staff, including in use of available fire-fighting equipment.

The consequences of such violations are all too evident: loss of human lives & property damage.

Every ignored violation is a risk waiting to ignite, while every safety measure is a step towards preventing hazards and protecting lives. Ensuring strict adherence to building regulations and fire-safety norms is not merely a legal requirement. Rather, it is a moral responsibility.

The question is: Who will be held accountable? Punishing owners and compensating victims is not enough. All those responsible for enforcing regulations, including engineers, Fire Services personnel and officials of departments that approve plans and collect taxes, must be held accountable for lapses. Only strict enforcement of law and accountability at every level can prevent such tragedies.

Hosahundi Junction Black Spot on Outer Ring Road

Rs. 20.8 crore flyover work begins despite opposition

Work on the proposed grade separator at the junction of the Outer Ring Road (ORR) and Devalapura Road near Hosahundi has begun and earth movers are digging the stretch. Picture right shows the road blocked and the traffic diverted on the service roads.

Mysuru, June 18 (MTY&BCT)- Work on the proposed grade separator at the junction of the Outer Ring Road (ORR) and Devalapura Road near Hosahundi has begun despite strong opposition from environmentalists and residents, who have vowed to resist the project if it involves felling trees.

National Highways Authority of India (NHAI) identified Devalapura Road junction as an accident-prone 'black spot' following a series of road accidents and proposed the construction of a grade separator to improve safety.

The project, estimated to cost Rs. 20.8 crore, involves building an 800-metre-long and 45-metre-wide flyover at the junction.

48 trees targeted

According to project plans, 48 trees located on the median between Uttanahalli and Nanjangud Road would have to be removed to facilitate construction. Environmentalists have strongly opposed the move, insisting that no trees should be felled under any circumstances.

A public grievance meeting held at the Devalapura junction on Mar. 25 witnessed both support and opposition to the project from villagers, residents and environmental activists.

The meeting turned heated, prompting officials to direct participants to submit their objections or approvals in writing, along with Aadhaar and address proof, at the Forest Department office.

Written objections

Subsequently, residents and environmental groups submitted written objections against the project. They argued that NHAI had failed to explore or implement simpler accident-prevention measures such as traffic signals, speed breakers, warning signboards and stricter enforcement against reckless driving.

Activists questioned the need to spend more than Rs. 20 crore on a flyover when, they claimed, basic traffic management measures could improve safety at the junction. Villagers from Hosahundi said, they had already lost substantial stretches of fertile agricultural land to previous infrastructure projects and feared the flyover would further affect small roadside businesses that support local livelihoods.

Preparatory work begins

Despite the opposition, preparatory work for the project commenced on June 15. Service roads have been opened for traffic, while iron-sheet barricades have been erected across portions of the Ring Road. Earth movers have also been deployed at the site and work has begun to remove sections of asphalt for the flyover foundation.

Workers present at the location said, they had been instructed only to fill potholes left from earlier roadworks. Environmentalists, however, alleged that authorities were proceeding with the project while disregarding public sentiment. They maintained that the activities at the site clearly indicated preparations for flyover construction and reiterated that they would oppose the project.

Forest officials clarified that permission to cut trees has not yet been granted. "In the public grievance meeting, both support & opposition to flyover were expressed. However, we have not permitted to remove even a single tree," said K. Paramesh, DCF, Mysuru Regional Division.

440 plant pots to adorn D.D. Urs Road

MCC Commissioner Shaikh Tanveer Asif watering a plant pot in front of a shop on D.D. Urs Road on June 15 to launch the pot arrangement initiative undertaken by the D. Devaraj Urs Road Traders Association.

Mysuru, June 18 (DM)- In a green initiative aimed at enhancing the city's aesthetics, D. Devaraj Urs Road Traders Association has launched a programme to place potted plants in front of shops and commercial establishments along the busy D.D. Urs Road in Mysuru's Central Business District (CBD).

Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) Commissioner Shaikh Tanveer Asif formally launched the initiative by watering a plant pot on the road on June 15.

Speaking on the occasion, the Commissioner lauded the Association for contributing to the city's efforts to increase green cover. He said, the placement of potted plants in front of commercial establishments would not only beautify the area but also help keep the surroundings clean.

Noting that the initiative could be extended to other commercial areas of the city, Shaikh Tanveer Asif said that discussions would be held with traders on roads such as Kalidasa Road in V.V. Mohalla. The Commissioner also announced plans to construct 12 public toilets in busy localities, including near the CADA office on Sayyaji Rao Road.

Stating that the city already has 88 public toilets, he said the additional facilities would be properly maintained. He added that the MCC Budget has also proposed the construction of 15 new public toilets. D. Devaraj Urs Road Traders Association President Veerabhadrappa said that 440 plant pots would be placed on both sides of the road over the next few days.

He further said that the Association has urged the MCC to introduce a pay-and-park system on D.D. Urs Road. According to him, the Civic Body has responded positively to the proposal.

The Association has also sought improvements in civic infrastructure for the benefit of traders and the public. Association office-bearers Mahendra Jain, Khwaja & Narthan were present.

Elephant camps get new safety guidelines

Mysuru, June 18 (MTY&KS)- Following the death of a woman tourist at Dubare Elephant Camp in Kodagu on May 18 when Makhna elephant Airavata fell on the woman after it was attacked by another elephant Kanjan and Airavata succumbing to injuries the next day, the Forest Department has issued 10 non-negotiable guidelines for safety of tourists, staff, elephants, accident prevention and quick emergency response at all elephant camps across the State.

The guidelines includes prohibition of any physical contact with elephants by tourists such as touching, feeding, bathing, clicking selfies very close to the elephants or standing close to them.

The guidelines also mandates visitors to remain in the green zone and not to cross the barricades; maintain a distance of 10 metres from the elephants and not to allow more than 50-75 tourists at the green zone at a time. Slot duration of 45 to 60 minutes, including briefing, guided viewing, interpretation, exit and buffer has also been recommended.

Only the staff and emergency responders, authorised by the Forest Department, are allowed in the amber zone, a controlled staff area. Only Mahouts, Kavadis, Veterinarians and authorised staff are permitted in the red zone, the Elephant Operational Area.

Staff has been asked not to bring elephants in musth, aggressive, unhealthy, injured, disobedient, mother elephant with six-month-old calf and newly captured elephants before the tourists. All elephant camps should install CCTV cameras and the footages should be monitored and stored.

Jayadeva Hospital sees 20% drop in outpatient footfall

Mysuru, June 18 (GA&BCT)- Following reports and viral videos claiming 11 deaths within 24 hours at Sri Jayadeva Institute of Cardiovascular Sciences and Research on KRS Road, the hospital witnessed a 20 percent drop in outpatient arrivals this morning.

However, the number of inpatients remained stable, including in the emergency section, where more than 20 beds have been kept ready and all of them were occupied. Some patients were also being treated on stretchers.

Hospital Medical Superintendent Dr. K.S. Sadananda told Star of Mysore that outpatient footfall had dropped by about 20 percent, largely due to panic triggered by videos and reports circulating on social media. "Heavy rain in Mysuru and surrounding areas could also have contributed to the decline in patient arrivals," he said.

"The Government must bring in a law to prevent the spread of misinformation through videos. Yesterday, the Hospital Director met doctors and staff, who have been working tirelessly, and boosted their morale in the wake of the negative publicity," he said.

Dr. Sadananda added that only three deaths had been reported at the hospital between 8 am yesterday and 8 am today.

"Patients should not pay heed to rumours. We are here to serve them. If they choose other hospitals, they may have to spend huge amounts on treatment. The Director and the Medical Education Minister are aware of the situation and steps will be taken to fill vacancies. At the same time, efforts are being made to bring 30 postgraduate students every year from Rajiv Gandhi University of Health Sciences (RGUHS)," he said.

'Attempts being made to tarnish Jayadeva's image'

Hospital Director Dr. B. Dinesh rejects allegations linking doctor shortage to patient deaths

Mysuru, June 18 (BCT)- Amid allegations that the absence of doctors led to the deaths of 11 patients at Sri Jayadeva Institute of Cardiovascular Sciences and Research on KRS Road in 24 hours, Hospital Director Dr. B. Dinesh has dismissed the claims, saying attempts are being made to tarnish the image of the reputed institution.

Addressing a press conference at the hospital boardroom yesterday, Dr. Dinesh said Jayadeva Hospital enjoys international recognition and that baseless allegations were damaging its reputation. Yesterday, reports said that 12 patients had died in 48 hours. The Director later clarified that 11 people had died in 24 hours.

Rejecting reports that doctors were unavailable, he said the hospital attends to 600 to 800 outpatients every day and admits around 100 patients, many of whom arrive with severe cardiac emergencies. Nearly 20 percent of the patients are brought in critical condition, he added.

"We admit patients to save lives, not for money. Treatment is always our priority and our doctors work with utmost dedication," he said.

Clarifying the circumstances surrounding the 11 deaths, Dr. Dinesh said all the patients had suffered acute heart attacks and had been undergoing treatment for several days. They were not admitted on the same day.

"All were above 60 years of age and had arrived after the 'golden hour' had passed. They were critically ill and receiving intensive care. In such cases, the chances of recovery are very low," he explained.

Dr. Dinesh said four doctors are on duty every night shift. While acknowledging a 5 to 7 percent shortage in staffing, he said steps are being taken to fill vacancies. The Government has sanctioned 200 additional beds for Mysuru, including 60 ICU beds, to meet growing demand.

Minister seeks report on 11 patient deaths at Jayadeva

Medical Education Minister Dr. Sharanprakash R. Patil interacting with Sri Jayadeva Institute of Cardiovascular Sciences and Research Director Dr. B. Dinesh as MLA K. Harishgowda, Mysuru Unit Medical Superintendent Dr. K.S. Sadananda, MMC&RI Dean and Director Dr. K.R. Dakshayani and others look on.

Mysuru, June 18 (PM&BCT)- Medical Education Minister Dr. Sharanprakash R. Patil has ordered a detailed analysis on the deaths of 11 patients within 24 hours at Sri Jayadeva Institute of Cardiovascular Sciences and Research on KRS Road in city.

Speaking to reporters after reviewing records and meeting doctors at the hospital yesterday, Dr. Patil said every death must be examined to determine whether it was preventable, identify the underlying causes and suggest measures to improve patient care.

"I have instructed the hospital authorities to submit a report prepared by a committee to the Government," he said. He clarified that several of the deceased patients had been admitted in a critical condition over the past few days.

"There is no evidence to suggest any abnormal or extraordinary number of deaths here," he said, adding that an independent assessment by third-party cardiologists would also be conducted.

"If public confidence in such institutions declines, private hospitals will benefit and ordinary people will be burdened with exorbitant medical expenses. Thanks to Jayadeva, stent procedures that once cost several lakhs of rupees are now available for around Rs. 60,000," he said.

Following the press briefing, Medical Education Minister Dr. Patil interacted with patients and hospital staff.

MLA K. Harishgowda, Jayadeva Director Dr. B. Dinesh, Mysuru unit Medical Superintendent Dr. K.S. Sadananda, Resident Medical Officer Dr. M. Pashupati, MMC&RI Dean and Director Dr. K.R. Dakshayani and others were present.

'NIMHANS-model hospital to be built at original site'

Mysuru, June 18 (PM&BCT)- The National Institute of Mental Health and Neurosciences (NIMHANS) in Mysuru will be constructed in its original place despite opposition from farmers.

The NIMHANS-model hospital complex will be constructed on 20 acres of land at Gudumadanahalli village in Varuna Hobli of Mysuru taluk. The land comprises Survey No. 8 (5.05 acres), Survey No. 60 (6.10 acres) and Survey No. 68 (8.25 acres), collectively measuring 20 acres.

Medical Education Minister Dr. Sharanprakash R. Patil said farmers had initially opposed the proposed site, but the issue has now been resolved. "I spoke with Minister Dr. Yathindra Siddaramaiah, who confirmed that discussions with the farmers have settled the matter. Construction will commence at the originally identified location," Dr. Patil told reporters.

Vyshak Vijaykumar had made his debut with Mysore Warriors in 2014, during the then Karnataka Premier League (KPL).

Earlier, former Indian pacer and ICC Match Referee Javagal Srinath launched the Mysore Warrior's team anthem, along with Karnataka State Cricket Association (KSCA) Hon. Secretary Santosh Menon and KSCA Mysuru Zone Convener P. Srinivas Prasad.

Joint efforts

Speaking on the occasion, Javagal Srinath, a native of Mysuru, lauding the efforts of Mysore Warriors and its owner

Vyshak Vijaykumar

Arjun Ranga, expressed the need of a joint effort along with academies for development of cricket in Karnataka.

"We are keen on taking forward cricket in a clean and right path. It is important for the cricketers to know about their etiquettes. The Maharaja Trophy is being organised on IPL mode, using latest technology. Just because of the presence of television cameras, cricketers must not show unacceptable behavior, rather confine themselves to display their talent," he added.

Focus on skills

Srinath advised the cricketers not to concentrate only on playing for Maharaja Trophy or IPL, but also focus on improving their skills to play all formats of cricket.

"Talent is not restricted to one city, as it can be found anywhere. Cricket in Mysuru is poised for a lot of progress in the future. Apart from SJCE ground, matches will also be played at Infosys ground in Hebbal. This apart, indoor facilities will also provided in the future," he added.

Bright future

Speaking on the occasion, Cycle Pure Agarbathi MD and Mysore Warriors Owner Arjun Ranga said this year's team reflects the bright future of Karnataka cricket.

"The hunger to win is evident among the young players and we are incredibly proud to provide a prominent platform for talents, who have consistently performed at the rural level," he added.

This year, Mysore Warriors franchise is joining hands with Usha Kiran Eye Hospital and ASL T20 Cricket Association to raise awareness about the health of eyes and to support and empower differently-abled athletes.

Tournament

The tournament will commence in Mysuru on June 20 at SDNR Wadiyar Stadium before moving to Hubballi and Bengaluru. This year, Mysore Warriors will start their campaign against Shivamogga Yodhas on June 20 at SDNR Wadiyar Stadium in Manasagangothri at 7 pm.

Echo of Dattagalli restobar fire

Excise Dy.SP among 5 suspended

Mysuru, June 18 (MK&BS)- Following the major fire accident at a restobar in Dattagalli on June 15, five Excise Department personnel, including a Deputy Superintendent of Excise (Dy. SP) were suspended yesterday on charges of dereliction of duty.

Those suspended are Dy.SP H.K. Ramesh, Mysuru Zone-3 Excise Inspector Ashish, Excise Sub-Inspectors Ranganath and Dileep Kumar and Excise Constable Rajesh.

The suspension order came in the wake of the visit of Urban Development Minister Dr. Yathindra Siddaramaiah to the city on Tuesday. The order was issued by the State Excise Commissioner, Bengaluru and took immediate effect.

The Maara Restobar had been operating a dining area for customers on the rooftop of the building's second floor. The roof was covered with hay and tarpaulin supported by bamboo poles, which is believed to have contributed to the rapid spread of the fire that reportedly originated from an electrical short circuit.

Speaking to Star of Mysore, Excise Deputy Commissioner (Mysuru Urban) S. Nagarajappa clarified that permission had not been granted to serve liquor on the rooftop. The liquor licence, he said, was issued only for the ground and first floors.

In the fire accident, two cooks working in the restobar kitchen, Saahin (26) and Prakash (24), were charred to death, while six others, including restobar owner and small-time actor Preetham Puneeth, sustained burn injuries.

Kuvempunagar Police have registered a First Information Report (FIR), naming Preetham as the prime accused, building owner Keshavmurthy as the second accused and others as additional accused.

Excise DC may be suspended soon?

Mysuru, June 18 (MK&BS)- Even as Minister Dr. Yathindra Siddaramaiah has recommended the suspension of Mysuru Excise DC S. Nagarajappa following the fatal fire mishap at a restobar in Dattagalli, the officer continues to remain in office, triggering speculation in official circles.

Sources said, as per procedure, any disciplinary action against an officer of the Deputy Commissioner rank must be taken by the State Government. It is learnt, an order suspending the Excise DC is likely to be issued soon.

In contrast, the suspension of five Excise Department personnel was ordered by the State Excise Commissioner.

'Mere speculations'

When Star of Mysore contacted Excise DC Nagarajappa regarding allegations by some of his colleagues that he had stakes in the illegal restobar business, allegedly along with certain influential persons in the city, he dismissed the claims as baseless speculation.

"Higher authorities have taken action against those personnel who were found lax in discharging their duties. Those now under suspension had faced similar action earlier as well," he said.

Building owner absconds

Mysuru, June 18 (BLU&BS)- As Kuvempunagar Police continue their investigation into the fire accident at Maara Restobar in Dattagalli, the building owner, Keshavmurthy, has reportedly gone absconding after being named in the FIR.

According to the FIR filed on Monday, restobar owner Preetham Puneeth has been named as Accused No. 1, Keshavmurthy as Accused No. 2 and others as Accused No. 3.

Police said Keshavmurthy has been absconding since the case was registered, hampering the investigation.

The building, named Arul Arcade, housed a liquor garage on the ground floor and a restaurant on the first floor. The restobar that was gutted in the fire had been operating on the upper floor.

Following the incident, the building was sealed in a joint operation by the Excise Department and the Police.

Preetham, who suffered burn injuries in the incident along with five others, is undergoing treatment at a private hospital in Kuvempunagar. He is said to be out of danger.

The condition of the other injured persons is also reported to be stable. Avinash is treated at JSS Hospital on M.G. Road, while Prajwal and Mahadev Prasad are admitted to Suyog Hospital in Ramakrishnanagar.

Fencing won't affect Ashada parking

Referring to the report, DC G. Lakshmikanth Reddy said that parking arrangements would remain largely unchanged, with a few additions to improve convenience for devotees. "Preliminary meetings have already been held with KSRTC, Police and Chamundi Hill Development Authority. Final decisions will be taken after obtaining Ministerial approval," he added.

The Ashada festivities this year begin with the first Friday celebrations on July 17, followed by July 24 and July 31. Sri Chamundeshwari Vardhanti Mahotsava will be held on Aug. 4, while the final Ashada Friday puja is scheduled for Aug. 7.

Yuva Dasara Grounds at Uthanahalli

Meanwhile, sources said that the administration had explored alternative venues in case the Lalitha Mahal Grounds became unavailable. One option under consideration was the Yuva Dasara Grounds at Uthanahalli, located about 10-km from Chamundi Hill.

Spread across nearly 100 acres, the venue has around 60 to 70 acres of vast usable space and can accommodate nearly 10,000 cars. Officials noted that the land has already been levelled and is suitable for large-scale parking operations.

The Maharaja's College Grounds and the Scouts & Guides Grounds were also considered for parking and bus operations. However, the proposal was dropped as both sites are located in the heart of the city, where managing the expected surge in traffic and devotees would be difficult.

Officials said, using these venues could lead to severe congestion in the city centre, making them impractical for the Ashada festival arrangements.

Council polls: Result this evening

Bengaluru, June 18- The voting for 7 vacant Legislative Council seats from Karnataka Assembly was held at Vidhana Soudha today from 9 am to 4 pm. While ruling Congress fielded 5 candidates, Opposition BJP fielded 2 and JD(S), one. Counting will be taken up at 5 pm and results announced later this evening.

DECODING MYTHOLOGY

Dr. Devdutt Pattanaik - Author, Speaker, Illustrator, Mythologist

Will Bollywood Rama ignore Shambuka?

The Ramayana and the Mahabharata reached their final written form around 2000 years ago, exactly when the Dharma-shastra was being coded. There is a Ramayana inside the Mahabharata, known as the Ramopakhyana, narrated by Markandeya Rishi to the Pandavas. In this telling, the role of Brahmin teachers is limited. The story focuses more on Rama as a king and warrior, less as a defender of Brahminical order.

But in the Valmiki Ramayana, composed a bit later, Brahmins are central. Rama's life is shaped by sages: Vishvamitra takes him from Ayodhya to the forest, Vashishta is the royal priest, Agastya arms him with divine weapons, Gautama and Atri appear in the landscape of the epic. Rama is repeatedly praised for protecting Brahmins and upholding their way of life. The king's duty is to preserve dharma and dharma is closely tied to the varna order.

The most troubling episode appears in the Uttarakanda, the final book. A Brahmin approaches Rama in grief. His young son has died prematurely. Such a death, he says, can only happen when dharma is disturbed. A king is responsible for cosmic order. If something unnatural has occurred, the fault lies with the ruler.

Narada informs Rama that the cause is a Shudra named Shambuka who is performing tapas, ascetic practices. In the varna ashrama system, severe austerities are said to belong to the twice born: Brahmin, Kshatriya, Vaishya. A Shudra attempting to become a hermit is crossing boundaries. A Shudra doing tapas disrupts order. One is reminded of lines in the Bhagavad Gita that states that it is better to perform one's own duty imperfectly than another's duty well. Narada interprets this rigidly.

Rama goes into the forest, finds Shambuka performing austerities and beheads him. At that very moment, the dead Brahmin boy comes back to life. Cosmic balance is restored by violence. The message is clear: social hierarchy sustains the universe.

The Jain poet Vimalasuri, in his Paumachariya (dated to 300 AD) reshapes the story radically. Shambuka is the son of Surpanakha. He is performing austerities to obtain a sword powerful enough to kill Ravana. Lakshmana discovers the sword, swings it carelessly and accidentally kills Shambuka. Rama is not directly responsible. The moral tension shifts. The Jain version removes the idea that caste transgression causes cosmic disorder.

Yet the original story persists in Sanskrit literature. In the Raghuvamsha of Kalidasa, composed around 400 AD, the episode is retold, but with a twist. When Rama killed Shambuka, he liberated the ascetic. Death becomes grace. Violence becomes salvation. Not because Rama is god (an idea that emerges later), but because Rama is king. As per the Dharma-shastra, when a king strikes a man, he is purified and goes to heaven. Thus Vedic kingship is exalted.

In Bhavabhuti's 8th century play Uttara Ramacharita, the story becomes more layered. Rama wanders in the forest searching for Shambuka. It is the same forest where Sita, exiled and pregnant, lives in Valmiki's ashram. After being beheaded, Shambuka reappears as a celestial being who speaks refined Sanskrit. He plays a role in the emotional reunion of Rama and Sita. Here again, death is transformed into spiritual elevation.

This episode is uncomfortable. In many regional Ramayanas composed in the last thousand years, it is softened or simply omitted as in the works of Kamban (1200 AD) and Tulsidas (1500 AD). Large non-Brahmin audiences do not easily accept a hero who kills a man for spiritual ambition. Folk retellings often prefer a more compassionate Rama.

By the 16th century, in the Ananda Ramayana, the narrative shifted to bhakti theology. The problem is not only the death of a Brahmin boy. Shambuka's austerities are said to cause the death of people across social groups: a Kshatriya, a Vaishya, an oil presser, the daughter-in-law of a blacksmith, the daughter of a cobbler. The disturbance is universal. Shambuka argues that he seeks liberation.

Ram responds that in the age to come, liberation will not depend on caste duty. By chanting the name of Rama, even Shudras will attain moksha. Bhakti dissolves the older rigidity. Spiritual access is democratised through devotion.

Local traditions add yet another layer. At Ramtek near Nagpur stands a Shiva temple associated with this episode. It is said that Shambuka, after being killed, became a linga called Dhumeshwar, the Lord of Smoke. Pilgrims traditionally visit this shrine before ascending the hill to the Rama temple. The slain ascetic becomes sacred geography.

Modern popular retellings, especially television and cinematic ones, avoid the Shambuka episode. But they do not mind amplifying the Brahmin caste of Ravana, the man who abducts Sita and is killed for it. Seen together, the stories of Ravana and Shambuka could force confrontation with caste hierarchy embedded in the epic tradition. For many, it is easier to celebrate the warrior king and the devoted husband than to examine the king is asked to kill to preserve Brahmanical hierarchy.

Across the many Ramayana retellings we see anxiety about caste, kingship and spiritual ambition. Each age reshapes the discomfort it inherits. Ramayanas on television and cinema have traditionally ignored this tale. However, despite the best of efforts, Shambuka refuses to remain unseen, unheard. His story will not go away.

'Keep Mysuru clean for Dasara, review steep MCC shop rentals'

UD Minister Dr. Yathindra Siddaramaiah reviews performance of MCC, MDA

Mysuru, June 18 (BCT)- Urban Development Minister Dr. Yathindra Siddaramaiah directed civic officials to prioritise cleanliness and civic infrastructure, stressing that Mysuru must retain its reputation as one of the cleanest cities in the country.

Chairing a review meeting with officials of Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) and Mysuru Development Authority (MDA) in Bengaluru yesterday, the Minister said, cleanliness assumes greater significance with Dasara festivities attracting visitors from across the country and abroad.

He instructed officials to ensure proper implementation of UGD projects, effective waste segregation and regular maintenance of public spaces.

MCC rentals

Addressing the controversy over the steep hike in rents for MCC-owned commercial properties, Dr. Yathindra said that a tenfold increase at one stroke would place a heavy burden on tenants and asked officials to review the revised rates.

MCC officials explained that rents had not been revised for nearly three decades and the new rates were fixed at only 40% of the rates prescribed by Public Works Department (PWD).

The Minister also expressed concern over the discharge of sewage into lakes and directed officials to take immediate measures to divert or treat wastewater before it enters water bodies.

Civic workers welfare

Highlighting the welfare of civic workers, he said, all benefits earmarked for them should reach the intended beneficiaries.

He emphasised that 24.1% of the grants should be utilised for educational support to the children of civic workers, including reimbursement of school admission fees. Officials informed that a portion of the grant was already being spent on workers' welfare and related facilities.

White topping and asphalt

On infrastructure development, officials said, 40% of road works being undertaken in city involve white-topping, while the remaining 60% comprise asphalt roads. White-topping works are currently underway on Bogadi Road, Manandavadi Road and other major stretches.

Dr. Yathindra also expressed displeasure over the absence of meetings of the Urban Development Authorities during the past six months and directed officials to hold monthly review meetings to avoid delays in providing civic amenities. Officials further informed the Minister that 158 houses constructed under 'Gruha Bhagya' housing scheme for civic workers had been completed and were awaiting allotment.

DC G. Lakshmikanth Reddy, MCC Commissioner Shaikh Tanveer Asif, ZP CEO S. Ukesh Kumar, MCC DC (Revenue) G. Somasekhar and officials from PWD and KUWS&DB attended the meeting.

No takers for expensive CA sites

The meeting also discussed issues relating to Civic Amenities (CA) sites allotments by Mysuru Development Authority and other Urban Development Authorities across the State.

Officials said, demand for CA sites had declined at current rates as many allottees consider the land prices to be exorbitant. Taking back sites where allottees had failed to construct houses remained a challenge, officials noted.

Deputy Commissioner G. Lakshmikanth Reddy suggested imposing penalties and providing one final opportunity to site beneficiaries, subject to Government approval.
